performance of gps-synchronized eas arrays in laas experiments - 29th international cosmic ray conference pune (2005) 6, 321-324 performance of gps-synchronized eas arrays in laas experiments a. iyono , t. konishi, t. morita , t. nakatsuka , c. noda , n. ochi , s. ohara ... performance of gps-synchronized eas arrays in laas experiments 323 the muon decay and muon capture detection with lvd - 70 n. agafonova et al stopping μ^+ undergo only decay with known positron energy spectrum and time distribution: $\mu^+ \rightarrow e^+ + \nu_e + \bar{\nu}_\mu$, $\tau_d = 2,2 \mu s$, $\max e^+ e^- = 52,8 \text{ mev}$, $\text{prob } e^+ e^- = 37 \text{ mev}$. (1) these positrons are detected in the scintillation counters, together with gamma from electromagnetic cascades (if muon decay takes place in iron) and gamma from electron-positron annihilation. absolute energy scale calibration of multi-tev cosmic rays ... - 29th international cosmic ray conference pune (2005) 6, 53-56 ... presenter: k. kawata (kawata@icrr.u-tokyo), jap-kawata-k-abs1-he11-oral ... and time and charge information of each particle is converted to adc and tdc values by the detailed detector response simulation. thus, we treat and analyze the mc events in the same way as
